

“Should I stay or should I go?”

Communicating Risk when the Storm Comes

July 14th

Free screening and discussion

2 pm & 7:30 pm
Long Beach Library
111 West Park Avenue

A new video by Sea Grant weaves together research from 10 social science projects. Watch the trailer at www.nyseagrant.org/csap

FIND OUT

Why people did not leave before Sandy

How messages about evacuating before a storm are being improved

BRING YOUR QUESTIONS!

Q&A after 2pm showing:

Christa Farmer, Researcher, Hofstra University
Elisabeth Ploran, Researcher, Hofstra University
Mary Anne Trasciatti, Researcher, Hofstra University

7:30pm showing:

Introduction by Bill Wise, Director, New York Sea Grant

Discussion panel:

Susan Dooha, *Executive Director
Center for Independence of the Disabled, New York*
Helen Dorado-Alessi, *Director
Long Beach Latino Civic Association*
Jennifer Marlon, Researcher, Yale University
Jamie Rhome, National Hurricane Center
Adam Sobel, Columbia University meteorologist and author of “Storm Surge”
Eric Zausner, Acting Director, Community Response Team, Nassau County Emergency Management

Refreshments will be served.

Long Beach, NY after Superstorm Sandy. Courtesy of Hofstra University Library Special Collections. Photograph by Amy D. Karofsky.